pianists to elevate their playing to an even higher level in order to provide the kind of execution that is required to make a professional-quality album like the one we have put together. The selections recorded include a variety of music from the past few years including highlights like: the “Barber of Seville Overture” from our NPR appearance and numerous other shows, the “R&B Medley” that was arranged and performed for the 2016 Virginia International Tattoo, and “Prophet of Pan,” perhaps the most difficult piece the All-Stars have ever attempted. They pulled them off with flying colors, and we hope to have a fully-completed CD to present to our friends and families by the time the holidays roll around!

Greetings Rhythm Project Supporters-

The summer is winding down, and now that PANFest and Festival of Steel are in the books, it’s time to recap the recent happenings throughout the Rhythm Project and prepare ourselves for the 2016-17 academic year! As usual, the busy All-Stars schedule never stops, and the start of summer was just the beginning of a new chapter for us as we welcomed our freshman members to the band and got them started in learning our set list. They hit the ground running and jumped right into the fray!

The All-Stars played their typical share of gigs in the summer, including a performance as part of the Arts of the Albemarle concert series in Elizabeth City, NC, and an outdoor performance alongside the Portsmouth Rising-Stars. Then it was time for our annual road trip to Morgantown, West Virginia to participate in the Mannette Festival of Steel. The All-Stars are always a big part of the festival and they even got their own feature concert at a beautiful riverside amphitheater in Morgantown. They met new friends and learned new music that was quickly added to our always expanding list of songs. The fun didn’t stop there; we took advantage of our numerous summer performances and decided to record a new All-Stars CD just before our seniors left for college in August.

Perhaps the biggest success for the Rhythm Project this past summer was our newly-forged partnership with the people at “Teens with a Purpose” (TWP) here in the Young Terrace community of Norfolk. We joined forces with their summer camp program and held a steel drum ensemble in which the kids could participate throughout the summer. Despite having to deal with the heat in our outdoor ‘panyard’ under the tent, we got a lot of quality work done with the kids and they learned an incredible number of steel band pieces. At the end of each 2-week session, they got a chance to perform for parents and friends. Having the music outdoors was an added bonus as it caught the ears of people in the neighborhood and community. Many young musical talents were discovered there and a valuable new alliance was established that we hope will continue in many forms throughout the years to come.

Community Band

In addition to the excellent young people at TWP, we got started on yet another project of having a community steel drum band, located under the same tent that hosted so many practices and performances at TWP. This has been happening on Monday evenings in Norfolk, and has already captured the attention of many community leaders in the area. So far, the rehearsals have seen a true mix of people from our community: kids from the neighborhood and summer camp, current Rhythm Project students (and their parents) from nearby Norfolk ensembles, and even elderly folks from all over Hampton Roads who decided to show up and try their hand at a steel drum! Rehearsals have been highly productive thus far and it’s been wonderful to see such a variety of people come together to make music alongside one another.

Teens With A Purpose

Our mission to reach people through music education using the steel pan grows larger and larger each year. As our current programs thrive, we are continuing to add to our fleet of steel bands by starting a new band at Jacox Elementary School here in Norfolk! This will be a program for 5th graders, modeled after our bands at Tidewater Park Elementary School. Steel pan is a valuable resource for bringing music into the hands of young people, and Jacox will prove to be yet another outstanding group of young pan players. It also fulfills part of our larger goal to create a strong network of steel bands in Norfolk of various ages, and to allow them to grow and learn with this art form throughout their academic years.

Recording Session

The perfect ending to a busy summer this year was scheduling the recording session for our third All-Stars album. With a string of performances throughout July and August, everyone felt great about the repertoire, and our performance level was at a high point. It presented the timely opportunity to bring out one of our pan colleagues, Tracy Thornton, from North Carolina to come and help get the tracks recorded. We camped out in the beautiful Robin Hixon Theater for the week of August 8th and got the entire album recorded in three long days. This is a valuable process for any musician, and it compelled our fine young
